out of your limited wardrobe, but you wear the best you have.
"He takes you to a cafe and you order dinner. How good the steak tastes!—so different from the tough meat called steak at the twenty-five cent restaurant. And then the other good things. Some remind you of home. Others you have never tasted before. You are appalled at the prices you see on the menu card.
Enter: The Liquor.
"You have never tasted liquor. In your town, ladies and girls did not drink liquor and neither did respectable men. The man asks you what you will have to drink. You say you will have nothing—that you do not drink. He says it is alright, come on, be a good sport, etc.
"You remember hearing the conversation of some of the girls working at your counter. You have heard them talk about drinking—and they are nice girls. Well, perhaps you will try just one. You do not know what to order so let the man order for you. The chances are he orders either a cocktail or a highball. You do not like it very much at first—that is the taste—but the effect is soon apparent and you feel happy—happier than you have since you left home. You do not realize it is the liquor that has made you feel that way.
There is a Price to Pay.
"Later, perhaps, you find out there is a price of pay for the dinner, the liquor, theater, etc. You may not find this out until you have had more dinners. You have begun to like the man very much, sometimes after a dinner and a drink or two you are not sure but what you love him a little.
"You begin to listen more carefully to the conversation of the other girls. Perhaps you realize that some of them have paid the price. You may think that it does not pay to be good, anyway. The girls who are good are the ones who stay at home and never have a good time. Who are you that you are better than these other girls? Why does it matter, anyway. So—you pay the price."
The Sister Lures.
"Very few girls start out with the intention of going wrong. It is a case of drifting in most instances. It is not always hunger for actual food, but it is hunger—hunger for warmth, lights, music, dancing, companionship, love.
"It is all very well for women in your position to seek the cause of the downfall of girls. But you will never find out from your own experiences. All you get out of such an experiment as you are now trying is publicity, but the girls and others who really know are amused at your efforts."

Aged Couple Who Feared Parting Die Simultaneously in Their Home in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Charles Block, Here's to you, old sweetheart, May you live a thousand years; And I a thousand, less one day, For I'll not want to live When you have passed away.
—Old Toast.

78 years old, and his wife, Fredericka, 75 years old, passed out the other day hand in hand, achieving their hope that neither would be left alone.
They were found as they had spent fifty years of married life—together. They had put their house to rights before they sat down to rest.
"The old couple were objects of the gentle comments of the neighborhood. They were always together and their sole fear had been that one would die and leave the other lonely and companionless in the world.
Content with Themselves.
A son and daughter who are not at home came often to visit the kindly old pair and always found them entirely content with themselves. About four years ago they were nearly overcome by gas in their bedroom, but were rescued. A few years ago Mrs. Block suffered partial paralysis and this made her all the more an object of the solicitude of her husband.
The gas was discovered escaping by Miss Elizabeth Metz, who lives on the first floor of the building. She traced it to the Block flat, and called the police. The bodies were laid out side by side, in an undertaker's establishment.

Savannah, Ga. "I was weak, nervous, run-down, had no appetite, and could not sleep. I had tried medicines without any benefit, and one day the nurse asked me to try Vinol. I did so and it made me feel like a new woman. It has restored my strength and I can do all my own housework. I would not take anything for the good Vinol has done me." Sarah White.

RU-BER-OID
ROOFING
COSTS MORE—WEARS LONGER

We have stamped RU-BER-OID "O. K.—A. I." because we know it is the square deal roofing. Customers tell us so right along. It is fire-resisting, weatherproof and wear-proof and it saves repair bills wherever it is used.

In many instances RU-BER-OID is still weatherproof after more than 20 years of service. You can buy cheaper roofings—but sooner or later you are bound to find out why they are cheaper.

RU-BER-OID is the long run roofing built for permanence and all-weather-exposure.

The U. S. Court of Appeals has recently enjoined imitators from using the word "Rubberoid" or any similar name as the trade name or brand of their roofing.

When you are in this neighborhood again, stop in—you'll be interested in RU-BER-OID. We sell the genuine with the "Ru-ber-oid Man" (shown above) on every roll.

GRAVING FOR AMUSEMENT
LURES GIRLS

From the Straight and Narrow Path, Says Chicago Woman in Letter.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Teaching the art of buying nourishing food for thirty-three cents a day will never solve the problem as to "why working girls go wrong."

This is the substance of the message of several hundred letters received by newspapers and Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop of the Chicago Beach hotel since Mrs. Bishop began her experiment of providing herself with meals at the thirty-three cent rate as nearly as possible under the conditions in which the working girl must live.

Attack Her Theory.

The letters, most of them signed by women who are self-supporting, attack Mrs. Bishop in some cases and in others commend her undertaking. But with few exceptions they express disagreement with her "hunger theory."

"It is not always hunger for actual food," writes Miss May M. Brown, of 952 Lawrence avenue, who describes herself as "what is called a successful business woman." "But it is hunger—hunger for warmth, lights, music, dancing, companionship, love."

Here's How It Works Out.

Miss Brown cites the possible predicament of a working girl along lines of supposition:

"You hear the other girls talking about the good time of the night before. You wish you could have a good time, too. You feel years older than these other girls because it is so long since you have had a bit of fun or gaiety. You hear them talk of theaters, restaurants, parks, amusements, and envy them.
"Then one day you get acquainted with a man—perhaps you are introduced to him; perhaps the acquaintance begins in a harmless way on the street cars. He asks you to go to a movie with him, perhaps. Or he may be of the other type and starts in by asking you to go to dinner with him. You go. You have quite a time planning what to wear
